ABOUT MS. SORAYA UMEWAKA:

Soraya Umewaka is of Japanese-Lebanese descent and is an award-winning multimedia artist (documentary filmmaker, actress, playwright, and director).

She had her debut Noh performance at the National Noh Theater at the age of three. She made documentaries in Ecuador, Brazil, and Lebanon.

She directed a multimedia theater production called "Hell Says Noh" in collaboration with the Brazilian government in 2019 at the Panasonic Center. She also worked as a Production Strategist at the YouTube Space and has helped YouTube creators grow their channels. She majored in Comparative Politics at Princeton University.

SECTION 1: KEYNOTE PRESENTATION

Soraya will speak about finding allies when creating her documentary films, and how she let her curiosity guide her when producing her films. She will also talk about her experience in a closed traditional world and how she pushed the boundaries of creativity when creating a modern Noh play. This presentation will be followed by a Q&A session.

SECTION 2: STUDENT PANEL PRESENTATIONS AND DISCUSSIONS (BREAKOUT ROOM SESSION)

Participants join a breakout room on a topic of their choice to hear student panel presentations and have discussions after the presentations. Topics are: public health, education, politics, culture, environment, and COVID-19
