

Health starts from the mouth

- Let's think about the possibilities of the oral cavity -

Guest speaker: Dr. K. Yano/Director at Haplus Dental Clinic, Lecturer at Tokyo Medical and Dental University, Director at Qwell Inc.

Oral health is essential for a healthy and abundant life. The oral cavity has various functions such as eating, speaking, making facial expressions, and expressing affection. In addition, healthy teeth, gums, and well-arranged teeth maintain aesthetics and determine a person's impression. It supports overall health and increases healthy life expectancy to help digestion and absorption using a healthy mouth to chew healthy foods efficiently. In this lecture, I would like to approach the impact of oral health on overall health from a broad perspective.
