Experience and Learn UX Design!

Facilitator: K.Okamoto / Managing Consultant, IBM Japan, Ltd.

【Message From Facilitator】

UX design is something that many leading companies are seriously incorporating in order to win their day-to-day competition. In this class, you can experience the "UX design" approach of observing users, organizing their behavior, and considering improvement plans in a 4 hours short WS. The user-centered design concept of "UX design" is a useful way of thinking for the tasks and research works that you may work in your labs on every day, and the "UX design " approach will be one of your weapons when you will start your work in future. I hope that you will take this opportunity to experience "UX design", become interested in it, and use it as your own weapon for your future activities in your jobs.
