

How a PhD grad seized a niche career opportunity -a surgical robot guy story-

Guest Speaker: H. Yoshiki / Manager, Johnson & Johnson K.K.

【Message From Guest Speaker】

My aspiration on launching new surgical robots drove myself into PhD journey in Tokyo Tech, and led me toward the opportunity to be a lead in the robotics launch project at Johnson & Johnson in 4 years after my graduation. My career story with hopes and strategies in early stage to seize the rare opportunity, lessons learned through the life in the "dream job" would be your source of inspiration. I'm looking forward to interacting with you as a live example of alumni on a career journey.
