

Call for Attendees

The 28th Special Seminar of School of Engineering Tokyo Institute of Technology

The 28th Special Seminar of School of Engineering, Tokyo Institute of Technology will be held as an international symposium on “Future of Mechanism and Machine Science”. Executive Council members of World IFToMM which is the largest international academic society on mechanism and machine science, will give us excellent talks and a panel discussion. Many researchers and students related to this field are strongly expected to attend this symposium and to build valuable networks.

Date & time : 24th October, Monday, 14:00-16:20

Venue : Meeting room 304, Ishikawadai 1 Bldg., Tokyo Institute of Technology
2-12-1 Ookayama, Meguro-ku, Tokyo 152-8550

*You can attend this symposium via ZOOM with the following URL.

Symposium theme : Future of Mechanism and Machine Science

Program:

14:00 : Welcome address by Prof. Kotaro Inoue, Dean, School of Engineering, Tokyo Tech, Japan

14:05 : Talk 1 “Kinematics and Dynamics of Mechanisms as Multibody Systems”

by Prof. Andres Kecskemethy, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany,
President of IFToMM

14:35 : Talk 2 “Novel Mechanism Application in Robotics”

by Prof. Erwin Lovasz, University Politehnica of Timișoara, Romania,
Secretary General of IFToMM

15:05 : Talk 3 “Advanced Mechanisms for Future Vehicles”

by Prof. Fernando Viadero Rueda, University of Cantabria, Spain
Vice President of IFToMM

15:35 : Panel discussion

Panelists:

Prof. Andreas Müller, Johannes Kepler University, Austria

Prof. Mehmet Ismat Can Dede, Izmir Institute of Technology, Turkey

Prof. Juan Carlos Jáuregui Correa, Autonomous University of Queretaro, Mexico

Prof. Yukio Takeda, Tokyo Tech, Japan

Prof. Burkhard Corves, RWTH Aachen, Germany and three lecturers listed above

16:15: Closing address by Prof. Nobuyuki Iwatsuki, Tokyo Tech, Japan

Language : English
