

Announcement & Call for Presentations

10th AEARU Workshop on Computer Science and Web Technology
(AEARU-CSWT 2015)
February 25-27, 2015
University of Tsukuba, Japan

 The deadline has been extended for abstracts.
*Don't miss this opportunity!

Background and Purpose

In the era of the Internet of Everything and its continuous interaction with human beings, we are witnessing the ever-expanding impacts of computer science and web technologies on every facet of society, from individual lives to national economies around the world. Driving forces of these trends originate in academia as AEARU member institutions are playing key roles in contributing to the fundamental as well as far-reaching research growth.

At the 10th AEARU Workshop on Computer Science and Web Technology to be hosted by the University of Tsukuba, we plan to focus on the following topics such as:

- Cloud computing
- Web technologies
- Human-machine cooperation
- Brain-computer interaction

The program will consist of several oral and poster presentation sessions by faculty, researchers, and graduate students from member universities.

Venue

University Hall, University of Tsukuba, Tsukuba City, Japan
