How to register for Career Development Courses

① Confirm the requirements for the completion of graduation
- Refer to your department study guide, syllabus, etc. to confirm the conditions for the completion of your degree program.
- All the graduate students in Tokyo Tech are required to earn the credits of Career Development Courses and Graduate Attributes (GAs) , which can be summarized as follows:

Master' s students・・・Two credits of career development courses and both GA0M and GA1M.
Doctoral students・・・ Four credits of career development courses and both GA0D and GA1D.

Each department (graduate major) offers its own career development courses for the students belonging to that department. In addition, IIDP (Innovator and Inventor Development Platform) provides career development courses for the students affiliated with all departments. You can choose to take either the career development courses offered by your department or those provided by IIDP.

② Confirm your course registration and your previously earned credits or GAs
- Log in to Tokyo Tech Portal and Register for career development courses by yourself through the "Web system for Students and Faculty."
- It is possible to confirm your registration, credits, and GAs through the above "Web system for Students and Faculty."
